EXPENSIVE POLICE PROTECTION.
Police protection in Chicago, the last eighteen months by the city bluecoats, special policemen and private watchmen, with the cry of inadequacy against it, has cost more than $9,000,000. It is estimated by City Hall accountants that the expenditure of probably more than 50 per cent. of this amount is directly traceable to strikes. Labor troubles in Chicago in the last year have made such enormous demands on the city police that Chief O'Neill will devote much space in his annual report to a discussion of the matter. Accountants have been busy for some time making computations which will be used in the report of the department.

The slide raised the building and bunkhouses and swept the occupants down almost to the bottom of the cañon, hundreds of feet below. ## CHURCH RULE IN POLITICS.

Critchlow Continues Account of Mormon Doings.

Women of America Resolve Smoot Must Go.

Favorable Report on Senator Bard's Postoffice Bill.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—The only witness on the stand today in the investigation of the Senator Smoot case before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections was E. B. Critchlow, formerly assistant United States Attorney for Utah. He continued his history of the Mormon Church, detailing instances in which the high officers of the church have manifested their power over the members in order to compel obedience in all affairs and in which excommunication has been the price of the independent spirit. Senator Beveridge assisted in the examination, and his attempts to prove certain evidence incompetent culminated with the question: "What would be the first duty of the hearing?"

Many women, representing organizations interested in the contest against Senator Smoot, arrived in Washington today for the purpose of perfecting their plan, and to witness a more effective contest. They attended the sessions of the committee, and after the hearings met in committee rooms and discussed the progress made.

The following statement was issued after a meeting of the women: "At a meeting of the Executive Board of the National League of Women's Organizations of America, held in Washington, a resolution was unanimously adopted requesting that on Sunday, March 27, or as soon thereafter as possible, every clergyman in the United States ask every man to write to United States Senators requesting them, in view of the evidence already presented in the case of Reed Smoot, to vote against the retention of Smoot in the highest lawmaking body of the country."

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.)
WASHINGTON, March 11.—E. B. Critchlow of Salt Lake City, formerly assistant United States Attorney in Utah, was the first witness in the Smoot case today. He resumed his statement in regard to the conditions in Utah and the prosecutions of polygamists. An open letter from Moses Thatcher to President Snow in regard to the platform on which he had waged his campaign for Senator was introduced, and Critchlow referred to threats which had been made against Thatcher in editorials in the Deseret News.

In the Legislature of 1901 was introduced the Evans bill, which prohibited prosecution for polygamy except where husband and wife filed complaint. President Snow and Joseph F. Smith were in favor of the bill, but Critchlow and Smoot were opposed to recommending that the measure be left to the good sense of the people. The witness told of the passage of the bill by a vote of 25 to 17, the veto by the Governor and the sustaining of the veto.

In answer to questions, Critchlow said the Governor was a Mormon, but that the sentiment of the country demanded the veto on the ground that it would defend the practice of polygamy and prevent prosecutions of violations of the law against polygamists. The veto by the Governor was put into the record. It shows that the Governor feared the passage of the measure would be followed by a general demand for a constitutional amendment directed solely at conditions in Utah, and that the demand would not be ignored. Gov. Wells said the result would be put under a ban.

Following the history of the State down to Smoot's candidacy for the Senate, Critchlow said Smoot announced his candidacy for the Senate first in 1900, and that the announcement met with opposition from Republicans and others.

The objections were manifested, according to the witness, at the Salt Lake elections for members of the Legislature and in expressions from the Ministerial Association of Utah.

The witness said that laymen in the Mormon church felt that the candidacy of an apostle would be unwise when it was charged that a governor of the first presidency and apostle were living in open defiance of the laws against polygamists. Critchlow referred to an alleged interview with Reed Smoot which was printed in the Salt Lake Telegram November 26, 1902, in which Smoot is charged with saying that he had no knowledge that any apostles of the church were living in polygamous cohabitation. It was stated by the Telegram that Smoot was told that if he wanted the information it would be furnished, accompanied by all dates and facts concerning the marriages.

The committee took a recess until afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
After noon, Critchlow proceeded with his statement. Senator Beveridge questioned the witness in regard to the general reputation of Smoot, particularly as to whether he is a polygamist.

Critchlow said he had never heard it charged that Smoot had more than one wife. The witness was asked concerning the protest made against Smoot and he gave the list, accompanied by a statement as to their business connections, and as a result, a number of them will be called as witnesses in the case.

In answer to inquiries, Critchlow said he had drafted the protest against Smoot.

Reference was made to the necessity of the Mormons to secure the consent of their associates to go into certain business projects and the effects of the proceeding when such a consent was withheld. Critchlow said that it was the opinion of many persons that if officers, such as apostles, should enter politics there was no chance for laymen, and they would not dare to aspire to high political honors. The necessity of apostles to secure consent is equivalent to church indorsement when that consent is given, said the witness.

"You say they would not dare aspire to office?" asked Senator Beveridge. "What would happen if they did?"

"They would be held to be out of harmony and not disposed to take counsel of those higher in the church." "What would be done to them?"

"They would be disfellowshipped and ostracized from the church."

"Do you know of any who have been disfellowshipped for independent political action?"

The witness said he did not know any that he could mention, but many instances could be given where it was shown that the church dominated. Senator Beveridge demanded the instances, and Critchlow proceeded to give a list of cases. He started with the case of Walker Brothers, who engaged in mining operations which did not conform to the wishes of the leaders of the church, who are said to have objected to the opening of the mining resources of Utah, for the reason that it would bring outsiders into the Territory. Witness said that transaction took place forty years ago.

"Give us something modern," said the Senator.

THE LORD AND LIGHTING.
Critchlow then gave a case at Brigham City, where a controversy arose between leaders of the church and the people, Mormons and others, over municipal ownership for an electric-light plant and this was opposed by the Mayor, who took the case to Charles Kelly, president of the state. According to the story of Critchlow, who announced that his story came from a man opposed to the formation of the Kelly Company, Kelly then received a revelation from the Lord to the effect that a company should be formed to take the lighting plant and that he should be president of the concern. The revelation was submitted to the general conference at Brigham City, and was rejected. Many Mormons, who opposed the transaction, were disfellowshipped.

"Do you believe a revelation was ever received on the question of a lighting plant?" asked Senator Beveridge.

The witness said it was not improbable that the report that a revelation had been received was submitted for the purpose of influencing the scheme of the Mayor and the president of the state.

The witness, when asked concerning Senator Smoot's power to prevent violations of the law in regard to polygamous cohabitation, said: "By one word, Smoot could either stop what is going on or cease to be an apostle."

He had got up the protest against Senator Smoot at the suggestion of Dr. W. W. Padden, the first signer of the protest, witness having prepared the protest against Brigham H. Roberts and being familiar with the proceedings.

Critchlow said he had obtained most of the signatures to the protest. Senator Beveridge asked if any one signed without reading it.

"One, I believe," was the answer. "Ezra Thompson, Mayor of Thompson, had heard the protest explained and knew what was in it."

"I suppose you said to him, Mr. Thompson, here is a protest against Smoot. It's all right, sign it, and he signed it," said Mr. Beveridge.

Vancott attempted to obtain an admission from Critchlow that he had always been bitterly opposed to Mormonism, and he succeeded after the word "bitterly" had been eliminated from the question.

Critchlow was questioned in regard to a former statement that Smoot was reputed to be not a polygamist, and asked if he could not say positively that Smoot is not a polygamist. He replied that the question never had been raised until Smoot's election to the Senate. Then the admission was made that President Smith would not allow a person to have the indorsement of the church for Senator unless that person subscribed to Smith's religion. Critchlow said that he believed Smoot would not permit a person to become an apostle or to become a polygamist or expected to become one. Smoot became an apostle before Smith became president of the church, and the witness said he did not believe Smoot to be a polygamist.

Names of John R. Winder, President Hatch and President Cleveland were read to show that persons who are not polygamists have attained high positions during Smith's presidency. Critchlow responded that they were exceptions because of their great popularity and the fact that it was well known that their wives had greater influence over them than the church. Each of the men mentioned, he added, is said to have an exceptional wife.

To show the general feeling of Gentiles toward the Mormons, Vancott brought out in the cross-examination that Critchlow voted to elect polygamists as members of the Constitutional Convention and he had been on the stump with John Henry Smith, who is a polygamist. As Chairman Burrows adjourned the committee meeting until tomorrow, he remarked: "All this, I emphasize what is often stated, that politics makes strange bedfellows."

CABINET AND NEWCHWANG.

UNCLE SAM AGIN' JUNK.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The Cabinet today discussed the press reports that Capt. Sawyer of the United States gunboat Helena, now in the mud dock at Newchwang, had protested against the sinking by the Russians of junks at the entrance of Newchwang harbor. This government has not received official advice on the subject, but it is said that the discussion by members of the Cabinet indicates that such a attitude, if taken by Capt. Sawyer, would be sustained.

FAVORABLE TO BARD'S BILL.

COMMITTEE INCREASES FUND.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, March 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A step in the committee on Public Buildings and Grounds ordered a favorable report of Senator Bard's bill to increase the sum that may be paid for land for the site for a new building from $175,000 to $225,000, and providing that the present site, or any other may be secured by the Secretary of the Treasury within his discretion.

This report comes out in favor of the decision by the leaders in Congress that public buildings legislation shall be had during this session of Congress, and is a victory for the peculiar necessities of the Los Angeles case which demands attention by Congress. At the same time that the Senate committee was reporting to the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds was trying to secure a resolution directing the Interior state Commerce Commission to furnish the Senate with a report of change in railroad tariff rates for each year since 1890, comparing the revenues received from them with the gross and net receipts that would have been received if the railroads under the rates of 1890.

Mr. Heyburn gave notice that, next Wednesday, he would move to take up the Pure Food Bill.

Mr. Carmack's resolution calling upon the Senate to take action on the papers bearing upon the nomination of H. Smith Woolley to be superintendent of the assay office at Boise, Idaho, was then read before the Senate, and Mr. Carmack took the floor to make an argument in support of it, which Mr. Hoar interrupted with the suggestion that the matter should be considered in executive session. The Senate then went into executive session.

Mr. Heyburn gave notice that, next Wednesday, he would move to take up the Pure Food Bill.

Mr. Carmack's resolution calling upon the Senate to take action on the papers bearing upon the nomination of H. Smith Woolley to be superintendent of the assay office at Boise, Idaho, was then read before the Senate, and Mr. Carmack took the floor to make an argument in support of it, which Mr. Hoar interrupted with the suggestion that the matter should be considered in executive session. The Senate then went into executive session.

BUSINESS.

A good spring business is assured by the generous rainfall. There is now no reason to fear a short supply of water for summer irrigation.
For one hour yesterday the New York stock market got busy, then the activity flattened out. The forecast of the week's currency movement was viewed with languid interest. Offerings of May wheat became so scarce under free liquidation that May closed strong at 96 and July at 95. Corn and oats made gains, like wheat, on the bullish tenor of the government crop report.

The edition will be for sale at city news stands as well as out-of-town news agencies, wrapped ready for mailing. ### THE WAR IN THE ORIENT.

The Times, as briefly mentioned yesterday, has made a special arrangement with Collier's Weekly, by which this journal is to receive advance sheets of the war correspondence received from Collier's great staff of representatives in the Orient. Two of these letters appeared in yesterday's issue of The Times. Another letter, together with reproductions of some of the pictures, taken by Collier's photographers, will appear in Part VI of tomorrow's issue.

The management of Collier's has a remarkably strong force of correspondents and photographers in the Far East, watching the movements of the contending armies, and the readers of The Times will have the benefit of their services practically simultaneously with the appearance of the letters in Collier's.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY.

If anything were needed to emphasize the absolute neutrality of the United States in the pending war between Russia and Japan, it has been furnished by the President's executive order respecting the neutrality proclamation recently promulgated. This order from the President is designed for the guidance of officials of the government, civil, military and naval, and all such officials are very properly directed "not only to observe the President's proclamation of neutrality in the pending war between Russia and Japan, but also to abstain from either action or speech which can legitimately cause irritation to either of the combatants." This is the true and only position which official representatives of the government should occupy in the pending controversy. The President is right in enjoining such discretion on the part of officials, some of whom are apt to be carried away by an excess of zeal for one side or the other, according as their sympathies may lead them.

In a time like the present, the sensitiveness of both combatant nations is abnormally keen, and acts or words, however innocent in themselves, are apt to be misconstrued or exaggerated if coming from a person representing the government in however obscure a capacity. Therefore every government official, from the highest to the lowest, should be on his guard to avoid both speech and action which may be susceptible to such misconception. This is the purpose of the President's order, and it is both wise and timely. The private citizen, in his capacity as such, is of course privileged to say almost anything he pleases within reason, and to do anything not violative of the prescribed conditions of neutrality. But this is an entirely different proposition, for the private citizen represents merely himself, and he is solely responsible for his actions, while the humblest official of the United States government represents the government to some extent. As the President says, it is difficult for officials to avoid giving offense to one or the other side, even when performing their duties with scrupulous care. But it is clear that "to such unavoidable causes of offense, due to the performance of national duty, there must not be added any avoidable causes."

The efforts which have been made in some quarters to make it appear that Secretary Hay has been actuated in his conduct of the State Department by pro-Japanese sentiments seem to have failed utterly to make an impression at St. Petersburg, and the reports that have been sent from the Russian capital from time to time, intimating resentment on the part of the Russian government toward the government of the United States, appear to have been entirely without foundation. Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador at Washington, has already taken occasion to express the entire satisfaction of his government with our position. This assurance is confirmed in a dispatch from St. Petersburg, under date of March 10, in which Secretary Neratov, of the Russian Foreign Office, is quoted as declaring that the Russian government "regards Secretary Hay's attitude since the commencement of the war as courteous, correct, and conciliatory."

This is a sufficient answer to the mischief-makers who would like to make it appear that the Secretary of State, in his management of the Far Eastern question, has sought to favor Japan at the expense of Russia. As a matter of fact—and it is known of all fair-minded men—Secretary Hay has conducted this whole difficult affair with marked ability and discretion from the beginning of the trouble down to the present moment. This fact is fully recognized, not alone in Russia and Japan, but at all the capitals of Europe. Our attitude will continue to be courteous, correct, and conciliatory, notwithstanding the attempts of ill-natural critics at home and abroad to make it appear otherwise.

THE DANCE OF DEATH.

Two news items of a somewhat similar kind appeared in the papers recently, within a week. One was from Ohio and the other from Missouri. The first told how a couple waltzed continuously for six hours and five minutes, which, it is declared, beats the world's record—for folly. Another enterprising individual played the music for the couple without a break or rest. It is added that "he was nearly exhausted." The other dispatch, from St. Louis, tells how a married woman, after winning the first prize for "artistic dancing" over a hundred competitors, at a masked ball, fell over dead from heart disease. She had been dancing continuously for several hours. The same dispatch told of another idiot who committed suicide by shooting himself because his physician had ordered him to cease dancing, or he would die of heart disease.

The world is not much the loser by the death of such fools as these. Entirely apart from the moral side of the question—and in connection with the modern style of dancing much might certainly be said under that head—there is no doubt that the immoderate exertion of dancing for a whole night, in an ill-ventilated room, is altogether bad, from a hygienic standpoint. Delicate girls, who would shudder at the idea of walking a mile, succeed, under the combined stimulus of music, brilliant lights, and close contact with the opposite sex, to which is not infrequently added alcoholic stimulants, in performing an amount of physical work that would tax a longshoreman, under normal circumstances. The next step is for them to take to stimulants of various kinds to remove the bad effects of the inevitable reaction, after the excitement is over. Then, the downward path to nervous prostration and an untimely death is easy.

LONG-RANGE EDUCATION.

While cheap postage has greatly aided the dissemination of information, and has facilitated commerce between the States and the nations, it has also served to spread among the people folly, and sometimes fraud. One of the recent developments of the cheap postal rates, under which an ounce of matter can be sent over three thousand miles for two cents, is the teaching of various things by mail—"correspondence" schools, as they are called. It is really extraordinary to note what a variety of subjects enterprising Americans have picked up to be taught through the mails—a sort of mental long-range gunnery, as it were. Judging by the extensive advertisements inserted by these people in the magazines, some of them costing hundreds of dollars for a single insertion, the business must be very extensive, and very profitable. In one number of a widely circulated monthly there appear advertisements offering to teach by correspondence, nursing, medicine, advertising writing, music, law, engineering—mechanical, electrical, steam, marine, civil and mining—journalism, dancing, poultry raising, surveying, architecture, metallurgy, navigation, book-keeping, shorthand, languages, plumbing, and, last but not least, "how to converse."

In some cases it may doubtless be possible for a pupil to obtain useful instruction, and to make considerable progress in this way, but in many of the branches enumerated above it is obviously impossible for a person to become competent by means of correspondence. The young man, for instance, who attempts to learn the newspaper business in this way will receive almost as great a shock when he first gets into harness in a sure-enough newspaper office as the young woman does who has perfected herself in school French, when she lands in the country where they talk it, and hears, what is to her, almost unintelligible conversation.

However, the correspondence schools are good things for the weekly and monthly publications, some of which, by the way, would probably have to give up the ghost if it were not for schools of correspondence, breakfast foods and automobiles.

The rain of Thursday came just in the nick of time. Had it been delayed for another week the outlook for the growing crops would have been very poor, in view of the dry winds of the past two days. As it is, the season will not be so disastrous as seemed probable a month ago. We may now, with reasonable certainty, count on a fair amount of pasture, a good crop of hay, a moderate crop of barley and a little wheat. Irrigated products will, of course, not suffer.

Andrew Carnegie, in the course of a speech in New York, declared that "distribution of wealth is the greatest problem of the age." That may be so, in regard to Mr. Carnegie and his fellow-millionaires, but to a considerable percentage of the population of this and other countries the chief problem of the age is the acquisition, rather than the distribution, of wealth.

Did you read the executive order from the White House published yesterday? Stop a moment and consider how much it means, at this juncture, to the United States and to the world, to feel the firm hand of a man like Theodore Roosevelt upon the helm and know that no diplomatic blunder will mar our peace with the nations.

There was less talk of cancelling the issue of storm-drain bonds after looking over the streets on the lower levels in the rushing rain of night before last. Los Angeles doesn't often need storm drains; but when the call comes it arrives with a roar and a swash as imperative as the bellow of a hungry and thirsty baby.

That Arizona vandal who has been breaking up the wonders of the Mammoth Cave and disposing of them for profit is unfortunately not the only one of his breed. If the vault of heaven were breakable and salable, we should soon be without star or moonlight, dawn or sunset.

Newspaper accounts of the first battle at Port Arthur are now beginning to reach this country, and they are entirely different from anything we have yet read of that occurrence. We will probably be compelled to wait for the school histories to get really accurate reports of the news.

A bill has passed the Senate increasing to $100 per month the pensions of ex-soldiers and sailors who have become totally blind as a result of their service. There should be little opposition to a measure so obviously just.

Senator Foraker expresses the opinion that within the next fifty years Alaska will have a population of 1,000,000 people. Alaska no doubt has a future; but isn't this a little more optimistic than the case will warrant?

A tourist was robbed in Los Angeles while kneeling in prayer. A large number of people will now claim that the reason they do not pray often is because they are afraid of being robbed.

Perhaps the milk bill will get shorter after the great big grown a little taller—but the milk trust is as binding as cheese, and is of no use for either the cow or the customer to kick.

A Los Angeles street-car conductor has gone into court and acknowledged himself a bankrupt. The millennium certainly can't be further away, now, than the first of next week.

We have about everything there is a-going and seldom get behind any procession; but, thank heaven, a shipwreck is a genuine curiosity—along these sun-kissed shores.

In the latest naval engagement in the Far East, the Japanese succeeded in sinking the Besposhchodni. That is the longest name that the Japs have been so far able to sink.

The war correspondents in the Far East continue to fight large battles (on paper); but the actual fighting between Japs and Russians is still in the nature of a minus quantity.

Griffith has now got into the betting ring. The bookmakers will lay you odds as to whether he goes up or squeaks out. Alas, poor Yorick!

The Hub printers' strike is ended, at a cost of four weeks' salary to the printers, and no gain to anybody but the walking delegate.

Although Japanese troops have landed on two of four weeks' salary to the printers, and no gain to anybody but the walking delegate.

The firebug—well, there's no place hot enough for him this side of the other place.

It is never too early to register, Mr. Voter!

How do you like being the taxed man?

RUSSIAN POPULAR SONG.
In my trans-Balkania home upon the Zmiegomiptqvworski.
With my brother Zmiegomiptqvworski-ovitch I used to play;
And our cousin Petropoljanstray from Djargomoguvmszokki
Oft would come to visit us and spend the day.
And those happy, sunny hours of our childhood!
How I weep to think that they will come no more;
For in Russia lies the home within the wilderness.
Far away upon the Zmiegomiptqvworski shore.
CHORUS.
Oh, the moon is shining bright upon the Zmiegomiptqvworski.
Where the catfish browns on the new through the scycrazymores the candle lights are gleaming.
On the banks the Zmiegomiptqvworski, qvworski far away.

ON THE TOWN.

STILL ANOTHER PATENT HOUSE.

PRESS BUTTON AND THE SOFA BECOMES GAS STOVE.

You Might Make a Mistake and Transform the Room Into a Laundry Instead of Conservatory—Owners of the "Touraine" to Build the "Wilhelm."

Social catastrophes might happen in the small new folding apartment house being planned for Grand avenue—the "Wilhelm."

Suppose at an evening soiree, you should have the mortification to press the wrong button and transform your lightning change room into a steam laundry or a quick lunch stand when you meant to make a stunning impression by turning on the conservatory? Wouldn't it be awful?

This house is being put up by the same company which designed the transformation scenery for the Hotel Touraine on South Hope street, wherein a row of seven or eight-room mansions are canned into two rooms apiece.

In the new Wilhelm on Grand avenue, all the comforts of home and ranch will be in several large suites of one room each.

Every possible double-up is employed. Even the dishes are marvels of ingenuity.

For instance, the water glasses: They appear at first sight to be the ordinary water glasses. Simply by grasping the glass firmly at the base and turning it upside down by a sweeping motion and placing it inverted on the table, the glass becomes a transparent cage for butterflies.

Again: In case of fire breaking out, the glass can immediately be transformed into a scientific fire extinguisher by filling with water and ejecting the same upon the flames.

This would seem to be about enough to expect of an ordinary water glass, but this is not all. It can be utilized as an attractive soup plate or bread and milk bowl. The charm of it is in the simplicity with which this can be done.

Another astonishing arrangement is the bookcase that goes with the apartment. At your pleasure, it is a bookcase, a toy for the children, a tack hammer, a chastiser or corrector for young boys, a weapon for cats and stray animals, a machine to break looking glasses or what not, a cat to hold up refractory windows, an ice pick, a carpet beater, a rug beater, a bug exterminator. Its other uses are too numerous to mention.

For married people these new apartments will be a marvel of comfort; but for bachelors of convivial habits they would never do at all.

Imagine the entrance of the jovial diner-out at 4 a.m. trying to find the right handle to go to bed by, tearing off his clothes in the chilly light of dawn only to find with a terrified yell that he has summoned by mistake and gone to bed on the patent self-ejecting gas stove, which at a bell signal comes up the back stairway, cooks its own dinner and sets the table.

Fancy the bachelor next morning with that blinding buzzing feeling in the granite block where his head used to be, groping for the push bell to turn the natorium plunge bath, but turning on by mistake the orchestra playing a Chinese band imitation.

What do you suppose would be the effect of a 2 a.m. man who, in an ordinary flat can only get into bed by hiding down behind a tall chair until the bed again comes soaring past him en route around the room and then jumping in on the fly, quick as lightning? What do you suppose a fellow like that would do, with the contents of a ten-room, two-story house cavorting and whirling in ragtime around in that one room?

Until you get used to one of these apartments, they are a bit trying to a visitor. Invited to sit down on a firm solid-looking couch, you do it gingerly. After seeing the other things, you have misgivings lest the thing may be cooking the family dinner somewhere underneath, or lest if you should kick a secret spring it might turn into an automobile.

Seriously, the marvel pieces are folding beds in disguise; the writing desks duck out of the way and become clothes closets; the wardrobes do the right about face and become dining-room buffets; a hole in the wall pulls out into a long screen to divide the room; the kitchen door lets down a dining-room table.

The Touraine is the second of the kind in Los Angeles. It is stated that it pays more than twenty per cent on the investment. The Wilhelm will be an eight-story version of it on Grand avenue, between Seventh and Eighth.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Harold Bauer's dismal experience must be added to the sloopy annals of Thursday night. The pianist was invited to a reception in the western part of the city, and, mistaking the fickle street car on any rainy night, he summoned a cab.

All went well until the vicinity of Pico street and Union avenue, where the driver, losing his way in the wet muck that made oblique beneath a slumbering lamp, drove fairly into the sidewalk, and finally got down in a state of furious ruckus, all through the front fender to get out, the luckless pair mired the horses and vehicle so that it sunk almost beyond pulling out, and the muddy fluid ran in a state of swirling rivulet all through the cab's cushioned floor.

Here was a pretty plight, and the musician and his comrade dolefully climbed to the top and waited for the intervention of Providence, or some of their kindly-disposed fellow creatures. They were at length extricated and sent on their way to a cheerful fire-side and dry clothes, but Bauer bitterly remembers his soaking in the "perpetual sunshine."

L. Beheymier, Bauer's manager, vows that he will bring no more distinguished pianists to this part of the country unless he is paid a rain subsidy by the agriculturalists. Said he: "Three years ago I brought Joseph Hoffman from the East, and the night of his heaviest concert it rained so that every street-car line was out of business—and needless to say, we were too. Last season I ventured Mark Hambourg, and it rained so that the flood-rendered the street impassable around the concert hall, and people couldn't have gotten in except with a boat. Now, this year, Bauer comes, and it rains again."

Tonight Bauer gives his farewell recital at the Mason Opera-house. His program is a brilliant one, and will doubtless remain a pleasurable memory in the minds of those who hear it.

Italian Band.
The evening concerts by the Ellery Band at Chutes Theater appear to be growing in popularity among music-lovers and society folk. The one of Wednesday evening was notable because of its well-selected program, the brilliant playing of the band, and the enthusiastic audience. Evening concerts will be given to-morrow and Sunday, at both of which Viola Carmen Soberanes, the little soprano with the four-octave voice, will sing several solos. Two soloists of the band not previously introduced will be heard. These are Sig. Ottili, flutist, and Sig. Ricci, alto clarinet. To-morrow night the band will interpret three Handel compositions, the "Hallelujah Chorus," a quartette for reeds, and the immortal "Largo."

ARMY AND NAVY MEN.

Commander W. H. Nauman has been granted a three-months' sick leave from duty at Puget Sound.

Commander Lucien Young who has been on duty in Chicago took command of the Montgomery on March 8.

Lieut. Rhineland Waldo, on duty in the Philippines, has been assigned to command the station at Cagayan, Mindanao.

Paymaster G. R. Venable lately reported for duty in the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts of the Navy Department. He will be second assistant to the Paymaster-General of the Navy.

Rear-Admiral Caspar F. Goodrich, recently promoted from captain, was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1884 at the head of his class. He is also a gold medalist of the Naval Institute.

Among the recent assignments by the War Department are those of Capt. Thomas W. Winston, Capt. Robert D. Walsh and Lieut.-Col. Frank Taylor to inspect the militia of Connecticut, Idaho and Oregon, respectively.

Capt. Lawrence Williamson, who has been stationed at Jefferson Barracks, has recently been appointed lecturer on hygiene and sanitary science at the medical department of Washington University, St. Louis.

Orders will shortly be issued sending Commander Theodore Porter to Chicago as an assistant inspector of the Tenth Lighthouse District. Upon the completion of the tour of short duty of Commander Garst the former will succeed to the position of inspector.

Lieut.-Col. W. F. Fountain, who has been on duty in the Philippines for nearly three years, arrived in New York recently. Col. Fountain is quoted as saying that the Philippines are not fully pacified yet, although much progress is being made in the islands.

Several officers have been spoken of in connection with commandant of the navy yard, Key West. Commander George F. Colvocoresses will probably be assigned there, provided he so desires. No change will be made until the regular tour of duty of Capt. G. A. Bicknell has expired.

Brass, Bronze and Antique Copper Ware

The most artistic skill is now always engaged in creating some new idea to be shown in a brass clock or cushion, a bronze ornament or a piece of antique copper work.

We devote one of our front street windows to an exhibition of these wares.

There are brass clocks for the small boudoir size to those for a place on the mantel in the drawing room. The ornaments are all first-class, and they are correct timepieces as well as artistic ornaments.

In the bronzes you will find a number of new ideas in ornaments. Antique copper in that pretty greenish blue is shown in a number of pieces—you should particularly note the electric lamps in the metal. The designs are highly artistic, and if you are going to buy a lamp for dining drawing room, or as a gift to some one, you can purchase nothing more desirable.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Meyerfeld Here.

Morris Meyerfeld, president of the Orpheum Circuit, is in the city accompanied by his general manager, Martin Beck of Chicago. Last evening they were guests of Assistant Manager Lott at the Casino Theater.

Grand Avenue Home.

F. D. Hill has purchased of C. R. Harris, through Althouse Bros., a ten-room, two-story frame dwelling, No. 2625 South Grand avenue, with grounds 20x100 feet. High improved, consideration named, $10,000. Buyer will occupy as a home.

A Navel Rose.

Treasurer McFarland of the Times-Mirror Company, yesterday displayed a fragrant tea-rose, which showed a perfectly formed bud almost ready to burst, growing from the center of a full-blown rose. He dubbed it "the navel rose."

Psychic Science.

"How to Control Fate" will be the subject of Dr. Alexander J. McVoy's psychic science lecture at the Blanchard Hall Sunday afternoon. Reserved seats are on sale at Bartlett's main store this morning. The number of these is limited, 400 unreserved seats having been added for the better accommodation of the throng of auditors who cannot secure seats until Sunday afternoon.

Neill's Opening.

James Neill and his company have left for Oakland, where they will open "The Liberty Playhouse" Monday evening with "A Bachelor's Romance" as their offering. This new theater is said to be one of the best on the Coast, and is equipped with a revolving stage. It is one of the chain controlled by the Pacific Coast Independent Theater Managers' Association.

Thief Got Cold Feet.

W. L. Hall, an employee of Jacoby Bros., placed a fine phonograph on Spring street last night, and entered the Nadeau Hotel for a moment. When he returned the phonograph was missing, as was also a negro who had been standing near. An hour later the detectives were notified that a phonograph had been found in the Temple-street power-house. Detective Rhoades went there and got it. It was Hall's machine. The negro has not been found.

Maine Reunion.

The praises of the Pine Tree State were sung by former residents of Maine at a reunion last night at the Chickering Hall, No. 332 South Broadway. There was a pleasant program of musical selections, readings, and an address of "Our Parents and Grandparents" was delivered by the Rev. Frank S. Forbes, pastor of the First Congregational church. Other features of the meeting were an old-fashioned spelling match and the serving of New England refreshments. Several visiting Mainers were guests of the local Pine Tree State people.

Pacific Electric Changes.

Several changes were made yesterday in the staff of General Manager Epps Randolph of the Pacific Electric Railway. Manager Randolph assumed the additional title and duties of general passenger agent, and H. F. Stuart was officially appointed assistant general passenger agent for the entire system. He will thus have the active charge of this important department. Walter E. Erwin, city ticket agent in Pasadena, will be removed to the general offices here to serve as Mr. Stuart's assistant. H. B. Miller, serving at headquarters here, will succeed Mr. Erwin in Pasadena.

Credit President Resigns.

At a meeting of the directors of the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association yesterday, W. H. Preston, the president, tendered his resignation. It was tabled. The directors have indicated a plan to induce Mr. Preston to resign and name someone else to actively fill the office. Mr. Preston has been appointed western manager of the bankers department of the American Credit Indemnity Company of New York. He will have his offices in San Francisco, but will keep his home here. Mr. Preston retains his interest in the commercial concern here with which he has been connected for a good many years.

Whittier Escape Caught.

William Powers, a member of a notorious family, one of whom was suspected of highway robbery, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Butler and Lehnhausen. He is an escape from the State Reform School at Whittier, and unless he can be successfully prosecuted on another charge will be returned to that institution. The detectives were looking for him on a charge of burglary, but after his arrest it was discovered that the evidence against him on that charge is hardly strong enough to hold him in the reformatory in court. He is a brother of Pat Powers, an ex-convict.

New Building Damaged.

The three-story pressed brick block being erected by E. F. Vogel at the southwest corner of Eighth and Figueroa streets was damaged by the heavy rain of Thursday to such an extent that the entire northeast corner of the building will have to be reconstructed. The walls sprung out of line about ten inches, and the iron posts, supporting the corners sank several inches. Mr. Vogel stated last night that the corner would be torn out to the foundations, and heavy granite beams would be laid for the pillars to rest upon. The block is estimated to cost $3000, and Charles Loggren is the contractor.

Macabees Sightseeing.

A party of Macabees composed of Supreme Commander D. P. Markey and wife, Great Camp Commander S. W. Hall and wife, Great Camp Recorder E. L. Gutherie and wife, Robert Sharp and C. J. Walter enjoyed the trip to Mount Lowe and Luncheon at Alpine Tavern yesterday. Messrs. Markey and Hall will be in the city until Monday, when they will leave for San Francisco. Many of the visiting Knights of Macabees joined an excursion to Catalina Island yesterday. The first meeting of the new Great Camp Executive Board was held last night and this practically closes the work of the convention.

Wrecked a Restaurant.

Not satisfied with the service given them at a restaurant at No. 259 North Main street last night, and because the proprietor of the place insisted that they pay for what they had ordered, William Russell and Anita Minnow started in to wreck the room, and before the police arrived they almost accomplished it. They broke dishes, tables, chairs, mirrors and glassware, and were trying to break the heads of some of the employees when Patrolman Walsh appeared upon the scene and placed them under arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace. They stated that they were willing to go to jail, because they had done all the damage possible.

Mrs. Gould Sightseeing.

The special car Poppy of the Pacific Electric Railway filled through the orange groves of the San Gabriel Valley and among the beautiful of Pasadena yesterday with a distinguished guest, in the person of Mrs. George J. Gould, who has been spending several weeks at Coronado. Mrs. Gould came up from San Diego yesterday morning in her special car "Ray Shore," and with her mother and Mr. Hyde of New York, who has been with Mrs. Gould's party at Coronado, was the guest of H. E. Huntington on a trip to Baldwin's ranch and Pasadena. H. F. Stuart, assistant general passenger agent of the Pacific Electric, accompanied the sightseers. A short stay was made at Baldwin's ranch, while the party inspected the interesting points of the estate, then taking a leisurely tour of Pasadena and luncheon at Hotel Green. Mrs. Gould remained in Los Angeles over night.

Arm Cut Off.

J. Brandt, a laborer employed by Contractors Sherer & Crowley on the Long Beach line of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, had his left arm crushed yesterday by being knocked down by a work train, the wheels of which passed over the limb. He was brought to the Receiving Hospital in this city for treatment, and afterward removed to the County Hospital, where the lacerated member was amputated.

Charged With Burglary.

G. C. Reed was booked at the Police Station yesterday by Detectives Steele and Craig on a charge of burglary. He has been in police custody for several days, but it was not until yesterday that the officers secured evidence against him sufficient to justify the issuance of a complaint. Reed is accused of having broken into the room of R. Robertson, No. 240 East Fifth street, from where he is said to have stolen a suit of clothes. The articles were found in the possession of a second hand dealer to whom Reed is said to have sold them. He claimed that Robertson had given him the clothes.

To Release "Count" Marinus.

Attorney Hugh J. Crawford will today make another attempt to get "Count" Marinus released from the County Jail on a writ of habeas corpus. Crawford tried the same game several days ago, and succeeding in obtaining a writ on the grounds that the complaint charging the "count" with obtaining a wife by false pretenses was sworn to by the unwilling wife, and according to law a wife cannot incriminate her husband. But Hansen was immediately rearrested on a complaint sworn to by Detective Detective Crawford. Crawford alleges that the new complaint does not state sufficient cause of action, and he seeks to effect the prisoner's release on those grounds.

Flooded Family.

After spending the night on the kitchen table with a flood beneath, Mrs. R. B. Derkum's signals of distress were seen from the mainland yesterday morning. She lives in a cottage at the foot of the Rindge Terrace on West Twenty-fourth street. At dawn, red stockings waving from the house brought offers of help bawled across the water from the terra firma of Adams street. They had to build a raft at last and pole their way into Mrs. Derkum's back door. The family was in a state of siege, the children walling from the kitchen table, the sink, and water everywhere. About a block of low land was flooded from an incomplete drain.

SANDY SHORE HER DEATHBED.

Howling Breakers Claim the Schooner Mabel Gray.

Jammed to Beach She Holds Out Remarkably.

Crew is Landed Safe After Hours of Grave Peril.

The crew of the schooner Mabel Gray, which went ashore at Redondo early yesterday morning, was landed safely. The vessel shows many signs of breaking to pieces and hopes of saving her have about been abandoned. The schooner is by the weight of her own cargo jammed into the beach. She withstood remarkably well the rending effects of the comb of high tide, which came at 3:30 a. m., but it was believed last night that she would go to pieces within a day or two. It was thought that the stranded craft would not survive the severe wrenchings of the high tide at 6:45 o'clock last evening, but she held together as if determined to bid defiance to the elements for yet a little longer. She does not now lie broadside on as when she drifted into the breakers. Her stern is about one hundred feet out from the line of high water and can almost be touched by a man dryshod at low tide. The bow does not point directly out to sea, but at an angle to the southward. TANGLED WRECKAGE. Forward of the poop a large part of the deckload of dressed lumber lies a confused mass tangled by the heave and pound of the sea. Her cabin is awash. The main mast and mizzen mast, loosed from the keelson, are tilted over to the port side at an angle of forty degrees. Weighted with strings of the rigging those ponderous sticks with every twist of the hull bear with powerful leverage against her under- works and must sooner or later force the planking. The foremast stands true. That is said to be because it is stayed with new rigging. Running from the stern to the shore is a small hawser over which the sailormen go hand over hand and leg over leg between the poor old hulk and the land. The Mabel Gray claims San Fran- cisco for her home port and is owned by Dolbeer & Carson. She sailed from Eureka two weeks ago Wednesday with a cargo of surfaced redwood lum- ber and shingles for the C. Ganahl Lumber Company's Redondo yards. She anchored about half a mile out from the beach at Redondo Thursday fore- noon. Her position was northward as well as out from the wharves. At midnight Fred Jorgensen, who was on watch, called one of his mates to relieve him, but before the other sailor was on deck it was discovered that the vessel was dragging her an- chor, or at least drifting. Soon Capt. Jacob Hansen, the master, and the members of the crew were on deck. Meantime the schooner had, heeled, ashore and was broadside on with the breakers beating heavily on her star- board. FRANK KNOCKED BENSELESS. Frank Bower, the mate, cut the lash- ings of the deckload of lumber and the mass went to pieces rapidly. A great billow lifted the vessel high and then dashed it deep into the trough and an- other big wave came smashing down on the deck with tremendous force. The combina- tion of movements lifted the mate and then threw him down between two masses of loose lumber. Another wave hurled a heavy piece of timber square- ly against his face. It struck his nose, tearing the flesh and rendering him unconscious. For perhaps a quarter of an hour he lay helpless. He says that with reviving senses as he lay wet and cold, pinned between the heaps of lum- ber, he felt indifferent to fate and cared not whether for him it was to live or die. FRANTIC SHOUTS OF DISTRESS FROM THE CREW AWOKED COTTAGERS ALONG THE STRAND AND A FIRE WAS STARTED ON THE SHORE. Members of the crew, which by this time had taken to the rigging, could by the watchers on shore be distin- guished as dim shapes grotesque and almost lifeless. Three figures might be discerned clinging to the forward rig- ging, and two others were observed sticking somehow to the main boom only a little above the waves. It was afterward learned that the latter two were Andrew Anderson and Albert Erickson, both of whom had been in the mizzen rigging and had gone down when that had been carried away. Through a lucky chance they saved their lives by clinging to the boom. WILD, WEIRD AND TERRIBLE. The breakers, as seen from shore, were appalling and, as more closely viewed by the wretches on the vessel, must have been terrifying. The Mabel Gray still stuck broadside on at a po- sition where the surf beat most pow- erfully. The waves would break against the side of the schooner and fly half way up the masts. Between the terri- ble booming of the surges there could be heard the frantic cries of one of the crew, wild, weird and terrible, in his half-crazed effort to summon help that could not come. The spectacular effect was height- ened by an ingenious lighting scheme. A trolley car of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway was moved to a po- sition above the back of the beach from where the bright illumination of its searchlight could be thrown on the vessel. The bright rays gave some heart to the men aboard for it helmed them see about where, in that horrible confusion, all had been in almost pitchy darkness. For the men sticking to the boom and rigging the only hope of getting to land alive appeared to be by a line hither enough to carry them above the billows. To have attempted to swim the gap would have been madness. The angry swirling seas were strong beyond the power of mortal swimmer, but in and about the crashing waves were the lum- ber fragments torn and splintered, and sure to beat with stunning force any who dared by tread of foot and stroke of arm to try to float in such a sea. THE RUSH TO AID. Augmented by new arrivals the party on shore sought to establish commu- nication with the vessel. The schooner's nearest works were at a tantalizing dis- tance from those who, wading waist deep, attempted to heave lines. Many fruitless efforts were made. Generally the throw would not reach, and some- times the lashed fellows on the ship, who had that little stroke of swim- ming brine could not grasp the line quickly enough to prevent its sliding down into the waters. City Trustee L. J. Woolley, a fisher- man, with his good right arm trained and strengthened by many hard tugs with seine and set line, made the lucky cast. A heavier rope was hauled across, and soon between shore and ship was stretched a hawser of comfortable di- mensions. With a snatch block rolling easily along the stretch of hemp and a breeches buoy contrivance hanging from it the men were one by one hauled to shore and safety. They were almost helpless, but the warmth of the beach fire soon revived them. Not long after daybreak the men were all off the stranded craft. The Mabel Gray has twice before been in serious trouble. In 1889 she went ashore in the Lower Eel River, near Cape Mendocino, Humboldt county, and stayed aground for several months. On February 17, 1897, when about 200 miles off San Francisco, she was struck by lightning. The steel stays were melted and her foremast was carried away. The schooner was built in 1882 at Fair- haven, Cal. Her registered net ton- nage is 135. Her length is 119 feet. WHY DID SHE DRIFT? The cause of the schooner drifting from her moorings yesterday morning is not determined, and may never be definitely known. Capt. Hansen was over- come yesterday morning by his ill-fortune, and reluctant to talk about causes, but he said he thought it was an ill- lucked day for him. He said that when the vessel was dragging he had both anchors but, and not far from sixty fathoms of chain on each. He stated that he did not feel the snap of a chain parting, but it is said the shock from that cause would not be great. As the craft lay at low tide yesterday both chains could be seen running straight out from the bow chocks as if tightly held by anchors. If both anchors are attached the fact will appear when the chains are heaved in. That may be within a day or two, as soon as the un- derwriters decide what to do with the wreck. When the Mabel Gray came to anchor Thursday morning there was a slight land breeze blowing. It has been suggested that in coming about when the anchor was dropped the chain may have wound on a fluke so as to prevent it from holding properly. FEW WRECKS NEAR HERE. The wreck is one of few that have taken place along this part of the coast in a good many years. The last pre- vious one of consequence was that of the little two-masted schooner Annie Gee, an ancient tub that dragged its own anchor and went ashore at Red- ondo about six years ago. The Redondo Beach Company maintains in the vicinity of its wharves a somewhat elaborate system of moorings. The company claims for those moorings a record showing that never has one of them been dragged by a vessel of any kind made fast to it. Following are the names of the crew of the Mabel Gray: Capt. Jacob Han- sen, First Mate Frank Bower, Nils Foraman, Andrew Anderson, Fred Jorgensen, Albert Erickson and J. Jorgensen, the cook. Jorgensen is a Eureka man, and one of the interesting types of the old salts. He has been in several wrecks, but he counts himself good for a dozen or so more. For many years he has been the chief aloft on the Mabel Gray. He was with her when the lightning took one of her masts away. SERIOUS BLAZE AVERTED. Fire which might have caused a se- rious loss broke out at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning in a pile of rubbish in the rear of the Homer Laughlin building. The flames were quickly ex- tinguished and with the assistance of a night watchman extinguished the blaze without calling out the fire department. The flames were approaching a large rooming-house which fronts on Hill street between Third and Fourth and within ten minutes would have ig- nited the building. CONCRETE PIPE. Improving Engineers Using Con- crete Pipe in Los Angeles. Col. Arthur P. Davis, assistant chief engineer, U. S. A., in charge of national irrigation works in the Southwest, and John H. Quinton, consulting engineer for the government in irrigation con- struction work, are at present in Los Angeles, conducting experiments with concrete and steel construction, with a view to perfecting a waterproof pipe made of concrete and steel, that will stand high pressure. Col. Davis has personal supervision of the Tokio Basin dam construction and is an engineer of renown. Mr. Quinton was formerly Assistant City Engineer of Los Angeles and in that capacity had supervision of the con- struction of the Third-street tunnel. Since entering the government employ he has furnished the plans for the Truckee River irrigation dam and had charge of other important work. The experiments which Col. Davis and Mr. Quinton are at present con- ducting are being carried on in the Spreckels warehouse near La Grande station. Col. Leonard, the well-known contractor, is doing the concrete work. NO SLUMP IN MILK PRICES. ABUNDANT SHOWERS NO RELIEF TO CONSUMERS. Dairymen of One Mind in Regard to Suggested Reduction and Show Inclination to Hold up Both Rate and the Householder—Same Price for Milk in San Francisco as Here. Despite precipitous showers the prospects for a reduction in the price of milk in and about Los Angeles are exceedingly remote. "The grass will have to be consid- erably longer than it is at present," was the only encouragement received yesterday by a Times man. From the emphasis put upon the word "considerably" in the above quo- tation the impression was conveyed that there is no thought, on the part of the dairymen, of cutting down prices from their present altitudinous fig- ure. True it is there is now a sus- pension of cream upon the milk that is served customers and there is a flavor to the fluid long foreign, but the same old price that has been so dis- heartening to housekeepers will prob- ably be maintained until the summer months have come and gone. Among dealers there is a unanimity of expression as to the cause of hold- ing up prices and, incidentally, every consumer. Scarcity of feed, resulting in an increase in the cost of produc- tion, is given as a legitimate reason for almost doubling the price of milk. This feed scarcity will not be relieved, it is claimed, until the hay and grain harvest is past. And possibly not then, as it is still a question of what the harvest will be. If plentiful the dairies may meet the popular clamor for cheaper milk and make a slight con- cession to the householder's pocket- book. But when a rate has once been advanced there is a general hesitancy to the extent of a suggested reduction. Among dealers there is a pronounced sentiment against any decrease in price. Milk sells at the same rate in San Francisco as in Los Angeles. WIND DAMAGED TREES. The extra weight of moisture brought on by the rain and the wind caused the breaking down of numerous large branches from the trees at Eastlake Park. Men were busy yesterday clear- ing away the debris.
